

On January 27, 2010, Jenn Fay, LVT passed away in her home in Manassas, Virginia. Jenn was a great coworker and friend. She worked in the hospital pharmacy and was one of several technicians who responded to client questions or concerns. She was also the regional director for the Virginia Association for Licensed Veterinary Technicians.

Jenn spent 14 years teaching preschool and school age children. In 2000, she decided to follow her true passion, caring for animals. Jenn graduated from the Veterinary Technology on-line program at Northern Virginia Community College in 2005, and worked for two local veterinary hospitals before moving to Alexandria Animal Hospital in 2007.

She was the proud mom of 10 cats, a hound, and a lizard named Lizzy. She leaves behind a great emptiness in our hearts, and will be dearly missed. We love you Jenn.

“Your gentle face and patient smile
with sadness we recall
you had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all. “
